

ABSTRACT

A computerized system for determining the range of investment risks based on identifying and quantifying the collective impact of critical business risks, on investment returns in technology enterprises. Business risks are identified and quantified to provide solutions to the ensuing performance relationships. These solutions are then individually applied to determine an optimal investment return on the overall company basis.